Radiology Congress 2023

From 29.05. to 02.06.2023, the internationally renowned Ärztefortbildungen.de Institute will be presenting for the first time the international WORLD CONGRESS OF RADIOLOGY in Palma de Mallorca. Located directly on the beach of the Mediterranean and in the immediate vicinity of the airport as well as the historic centre of the city, the popular four-star Meliá Marina conference hotel will host the premiere of the Radiology Congress.

The innovative radiology congress is divided into four main medical subject areas. New scientific findings in radiology will be presented by renowned experts on the first day: the diverse congress subjects range from the optimisation of diagnostics through Artificial Intelligence to trends in medical radio-nuclides and new international findings in interventional radiology.

During the second day of the congress, the focus will be on the subject of oncology. Innovative therapeutic approaches, insights into advances in radio-nuclide therapies and nanotechnology form some of the mainstays of the exciting series of presentations given by the expert lecturers.

The third day of the congress will focus on radiological simulation and technology. Here, valuable knowledge from the areas of radiology and imaging technologies, digitalisation in the private radiology practices through to exciting best-practice presentations from the field of interventional radiology will be shared in an exciting way.

On the last day, the lectures will focus on diagnostics and therapy. Among other things, the focus of the presentations will be on new digital generations of CT, special diagnostics, medical expert training for the sub-specialty of radiology and a wide range of diagnostic imaging. On the fifth day, which does not officially count as part of the congress, all German-speaking doctors and participants will have the opportunity to refresh their radiation expertise free of charge.

A total of 28 highly qualified speakers with valuable expert knowledge will lecture on over 50 radiological specialist topics. For the first time, the innovative radiology congress is forging a bridge between theory, science and practical medical application. For this reason, the congress is highly suitable for scientists, (hospital) doctors, engineers as well as for daily users such as medical assistants.

Congress participants benefit not only from the valuable and sustainable transfer of knowledge, but also from the interdisciplinary exchange. Both forward-looking and due to the still seemingly dynamic epidemiological situation, the radiology congress will be offered in a modern hybrid format.
